The Disabled Body in the World

Anne Finger
Author and Disability Activist

Tuesday, October 23, 2012
Reading 5:30 to 6:30 pm
Reception and Book Signing is from 6:30 to 7:30 pm

MacNaughton 100, College of Law
SU Campus

Ms. Anne Finger, renowned author and longstanding disability rights activist, will be reading from a selection of her fiction and creative non-fiction works, followed by a dinner reception and book signing, for all members of the S.U. community. While this event is geared specifically to raise and support awareness among undergraduates, everyone is welcomed to participate in this exciting set of opportunities.

American Sign Language (ASL) interpretation will be provided during both the presentation of Ms. Finger's reading, and the reception/book signing. Communication Access Realtime Translation (CART) will be provided during the presentation.

If you require accommodations or need information on parking for this event, please contact Radell Roberts at 443-4424 or rrober02@syr.edu.

This event is made possible through the Co-Curricular Departmental Initiatives program within the Division of Student Affairs, and cosponsorship by the Disability Cultural Center, the Renée Crown University Honors Program, the Center on Human Policy, Law, and Disability Studies, the Burton Blatt Institute, the Dept. of Women's and Gender Studies, the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender Resource Center, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, the Slutzker Center for International Services, the Creative Writing Program, the Disability Law and Policy Program, the Disability Student Union, the Beyond Compliance Coordinating Committee, the Disability Law Society, Verbal Blend, and the Nu Rho Poetic Society

As aspects of variance and diversity, disability cultures and identities enrich the tapestry of life on and off the SU campus.
